The Big Squeeze

The Big Squeeze 2012 Surviving not thriving

Sixty-six per cent of organisations report an increase in demand for their services, and sixty per cent report a decrease in funding, making it an unfortunate reality that London's voluntary and community sector are doing far more with much less. And they are doing so by adopting innovative and flexible approaches to providing services for their communities.

The Big Squeeze survey is a snapshot of the current impact the economic and policy climate is having on the voluntary and community sector in London and the people that use their services. It suggests that Londoners are being negatively affected by recent local authority cuts, welfare reforms and unemployment.

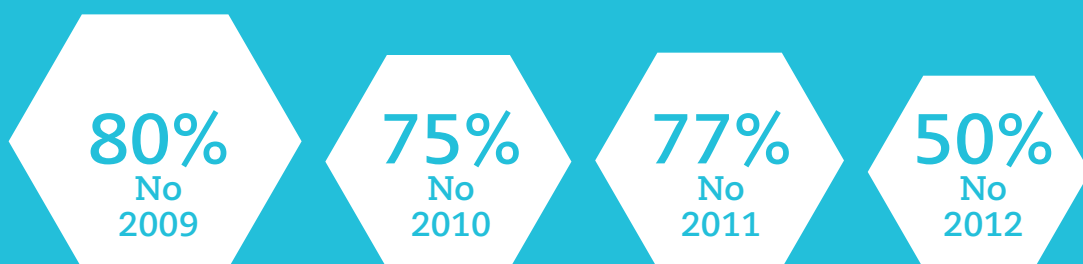

Headline findings

- 90% of organisations continue to change the way they work in order to adapt to changes and better meet users' needs
- 60% reported a reduction in their overall funding in 2012–13 with a median decrease of 21–40%
- 41% closed services over the year
- 29% expect to close services in 2012–13
- 66% have seen an increase in demand for their services in the last year, particularly for advice services
- 71% expect demand to increase next year
- 50% think they will not be able to meet this increase
- 54% used their free reserves to cover running costs in 2011–12
- At the end of 2011–12, only 34% reported more than three months expenditure in free reserves
- 8% had no free reserves in 2011–12

The impact of the policy climate

- 85% think that cuts to local authority budgets had a particularly negative impact on their communities
- 83% said that their users had been negatively affected by loss of services that meet their needs, particularly advice services
- 63% said that welfare reforms had disadvantaged the communities with which they work
- 56% said their users had been negatively affected by worklessness and 48% said their users' health was worse
- 45% think that no Government policy had a positive impact on the communities with which they work
- 20%, 22% and 38%, respectively, report Localism, Big Society and more commissioning of public services from the independent sector had a negative impact on their communities

Will you be able to meet increases in demand for your services?

Context: London and Londoners...*

- Have the highest poverty rates in England
- More than half live in households with a weekly income below the minimum needed for an acceptable standard of living
- 82,000 to 133,000 households may be unable to afford their homes following the welfare reforms
- By 2016, only 36% of housing will be affordable to those receiving housing benefit, compared to 75% pre-reform
- The unemployment rate is the highest of any region and has increased from 6.7% in the second quarter of 2008 to 10.1% in the first quarter of 2012
- Young people (under 25) have been disproportionately affected by unemployment with more than 20% of young people in deprived areas of London not in employment, education or training (NEET), compared to 16.2% nationally
- Voluntary and community sector employment fell by 9% nationally, with 60% of those losing their jobs being based in London

Tracking responses over the years

This year there was a more optimistic response to the questions asked in each of the four years' surveys. This suggests that London's voluntary and community sector organisations are responding more effectively to the challenges of the current climate.

Impact, response and budgets	2009	2010	2011	2012
